

Matt McRaeClimate Policy Strategist, Our Children's Trust

Matt McRae graduated from the College of Natural Resources at Utah State University with a B.S. in Environmental Studies. Matt spent eight years as a local government Climate and Energy Analyst developing climate action plans, conducting greenhouse gas inventories, evaluating climate policy, and implementing climate actions. Prior to working for local government, Matt worked for the National Park Service for nine years. Matt is the Climate Policy Strategist for Our Children's Trust. His work involves researching and developing the climate actions and policies necessary to achieve a stable climate. In his free time, you'll find Matt with his family hiking, canoeing, and sailing.